

Introduction

My name is Keone Aratani, I am currently studying Computer Science at the University of Hawaii at Manoa. I wanted to study Computer Science because I saw it as a chance to have endless opportunities if I did well in college. With these opportunities I could have a chance to improve the world and help usher in a new age of technology. I currently do not know what branch of Computer Science I will try to find a job in, so I am trying to learn as much as possible before I make that decision. I am currently in my fourth semester and taking classes in Software Engineering and Algorithms. I have taken classes in C, C++, and Java.
